ABOUT THE CENTRE

A corporate entity's importance in the economic, political and social milieu can never be underestimated and hence an efficient corporate legal framework is of considerable importance. Corporate law and corporate law scholarship have grown tremendously in the recent era. Corporate laws govern the rights, relations, and conduct of persons, companies, organizations and businesses.

India has a plethora of laws which govern a corporate entity, and also various regulators and agencies which govern and control their corporate activities. Presently, these laws as well as the regulatory bodies are constantly working towards ensuring ease of doing business while keeping in check the unscrupulous activities of the corporate entities.

The Centre for Corporate Laws and Governance aims to act as a multidisciplinary forum for the research, analysis and discussion of various issues in corporate law and governance emerging from time to time in India and around the world.

ABOUT DNLU
